Details of reports that will not convert

Universe not found

One or more queries in this report use a universe that could not be found in BusinessObjects. It may have been deleted or moved, or the discovery account may not have access to it. Without the universe, the query cannot be mapped to Snowflake.

What to do (Customer): Point the query at a universe that exists, or retire the report if it is no longer used. If the universe does exist, tell your FIS contact so access can be checked and discovery run again.

Report could not be read

Discovery could not open this report to read its queries, even after retrying. Nothing is known yet about which universes it uses, so it cannot be assessed for conversion.

What to do (FIS): FIS will investigate and run discovery again. If the report fails to open in BusinessObjects for you as well, it may be damaged; consider retiring or rebuilding it.

No Snowflake mapping for universe

The universe this report uses was found, but no Snowflake target is configured for the folder it sits in, so its queries have nowhere to be mapped to.

What to do (FIS): Confirm whether this universe should migrate. If it should, FIS will add the folder mapping and the report will be reassessed. If it is not needed, the report can be retired.

Uses an unsupported UNV universe

One or more queries in this report use a legacy UNV universe. The migration supports UNX universes only, so these queries cannot be moved to Snowflake as they are.

What to do (Customer): Rebuild the queries on a UNX universe, or convert the universe to UNX, then include the report in a later wave. Retire the report if it is no longer used.

Excel source not found

A query in this report reads from an Excel workbook that was not found in this discovery. Without the workbook, the query cannot be mapped.

What to do (Customer): Check that the workbook still exists in BusinessObjects. If it does, tell your FIS contact so it can be included in discovery; if not, point the query at another source or retire the report.
